CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Mayor Moores Presents a Large Assortment of Vetoes.

WEWS ON ELKHORN VALLEY HOUSE DEAL

Comptroller Westberg Files a Showing on the Condition of the Lighting Fund, Showing What Street Lamps Cost.

Mayor Moores regaled the city council last night with one of the choicest assortments of vetoes that has ever been dished up for the edification of that body. There were ten of them and the council adjusted matters as evenly as possible by sustaining five.

The most notable feature of the veto program was that referring to the proposed setelement of the complications growing out of the negotiations for the purchase of the Elkhorn Valley house. In this case the mayor very pointedly intimated that it was purely the fault of the council that the trouble had arisen and that if there were any bills to be settled the members should be held individually responsible. In this connection he said: EXPLAINS HIS POSITION.

EXPLAINS HIS POSITION.

I return herewith, without my approval, document No. 1263, passed by your honorable body March 25, 1898. This resolution directs the payment of $500 to Mrs. Mary Moran and $500 to George P. Bemis Real Estate company in full settlement of their claims against the city by reason of their cancelation of negotiations for the purchase of the Elkhorn Valley House property to be used as a city jail.

I veto this resolution, because I cannot see how the city is under any obligations to Mrs. Moran or to the George P. Bemis Real Estate company, and I see no reason why we should make a present to them of $1,000 of the city money. If any injury has been done to Mrs. Moran's property the city is not liable for it, nor for any other unauthorized act of the city employes outside the scope of their authority. Nor is the city bound to pay Mr. Bemis a commission on the transaction, as no contract was entered into and no compromise with him is necessary, in my judgment. All contracts, to be binding upon the city, must first be passed by the council and then submitted to the mayor for his approval. No resolution looking toward the purchase of this property was ever submitted to me, nor was I consulted in the matter. For this reason it was not in the power of any persons to bind the city, and if any officials have done any damage to Mrs. Moran's property under the supposition that a purchase would be made, they have rendered themselves liable, but not the city.

Mr. Bemis is too well posted on municipal affairs not to know that the city could not be bound by any such haphazard and unauthorized proceedings as were pursued in this case.

The vetoe was sustained by 8 to 1, Lobeck easting the minority vote. ON STREET REPAIRS.

The resolution ordering the city treasurer to cancel the personal taxes of James Stephenson amounting to $43, was vetoed be cause the action was contrary to the recommendations of the city attorney and tax commissioner. The resolution was passed over the veto, Mercer casting the only nega-

The mayor transmitted a very vigorous veto of the resolution by which the Board of Public Works was ordered to repair North Twenty-fourth street at a cost of $300. He stated that he had been advised by the city stated that he had been advised by the city engineer it would cost at least $1,000 to put the street in good condition. A new pave-ment on this district was a public necessity and if the property owners were not public-spirited enough to sign a petition for re-paving it was not just that the entire city should pay for the improvement of their

...AMUSEMENTS...

Last evening at Boyd's theater the Bostonians gave a splendid performance of the light opera, "Robin Hood," libretto by Harry B. Smith, music by Reginald De Koven and others. The theater was packed from pit to dome with an audience that would have inspired any company of artists to do its best. As the Bostonians have become habituated to fine audiences and to best efforts. it is almost needless to say that their rendering of "Robin Hood" was all that could be desired. Mr. De Koven has been a student of the best operatic models; reminders of "Die Walkure," "Lohengrin," "Die Mels-tersinger" and "Lakme," give evidence of it; but for all that he has brought into ex-istence a work which is without an equal in its class. There are many other composers who "know their Wagner" and go by it, not always with a pleasing effect, either. Even takes on new life and, as sung by Jesse Bartlett Davis, is worthy of enthusiastic applause. Miss Alice Neilson as Maid Marian vas picturesque and sang with a grace and technique that are rarely heard on the light opera stage. Elenoire Giusti, a new comer, made a favorable impression as Annabel. Bamabee as the sheriff scored his usual success and gave the part an individuality peculiarly its own. Frothingham as Friar Tuck afforded no end of amusement; William Philp appeared to greater advantage than in the "Serenade" and MacDonald generated considerable thirst with his song about the "Nut Brown Ale." Eugene Cowles sang with wonted fire, but disappointed some of his admirers by omit-ting several of his customary low tones. W. H. Fitsgerald as Guy of Gioborne was clever -and vocally sufficient. Josephine Bortlett as Dame Durden was hardly recogthe "Serenade." Chorus and or the "Serenade." Chorus and orchestra were particularly eatisfactory and Mr. Studly con-ducted like the thorough musician which

The Bostonians go from here to Sioux City and thence by easy stages to New York where next month they open for their regular spring season. The appearance in this city of Mme. Melba and a company of artists of the first rank in Ressini's melodious opera, "The Barber of Seville," is the coming musical event toward which all interest is now turned. in this city. Her company contains that prince of baritones, Campanari, whose por-trayal of the part of the jolly barber, Figaro, is such as to entitle him to share honors with Melba herself. It is not strange that the people of Omaha are looking forward to April 6 with pleasant anticipation.

Mme. Melba, who has been called the greatest of living sopranos, will be heard in "The Barber of Seville" at Boyd's for one performance only Wednesday evening, April 6. She will be supported by Salignac, Campanari, Van Cauteren and others of the Damrosch-Bills company and by a full chorus

Two performances of "The Fatal Card" will be given at the Creighton today-afternoon and evening.

The statement in a local paper that the present is the last week of the Woodward company in Omaha is incomplete and mis-leading. Most of the members of the local mpany will, it is true, be transferred to Denver, but the arrangement is merely tem-porary and was adopted only because they are already "up" in "The Ensign," with which the Denver season of seven weeks opens. During their absence the Creighton stage will be occupied by the company orig-inally intended for Denver, which is said to be fully competent to uphold the Woodward reputation. Mr. and Mrs. Enos will remain in Omaha and Mr. Horace V. Noble, who is a great favorite here, will also be member of the new company.

"Miss Francis of Yale," which was seen and liked here lost season, will be pre-cented this afternoon and evening at Boyd's by practically the same company, headed by Etlenne Girardot and including Lavinia Shannon, Idaline Cotton, Gertrude Homan, Brenton Thorpe, Raymond Capp and others.

the Highwaymen.

After an interval of two weeks in which the public mind was allowed to regain a measure of composure the reign of footpads seems once more to have been resumed in tillar to Baueroft; Twenty-sixth street, Poppleton avenue to Woolworth avenue.

According to an ordinance introduced by Lobeck it is made an offense to roll a hosp or fly a kite on any of the streets or boule-

Mr. Clark is a dentist and also a member The ordinance excluding street peddlers from the central business district except under special restrictions was introduced by late Monday night. Shortly after 12 o'clock he was returning to his rooms at 1817 Jackson street and was within a block of home when the incident occurred. At the corner of Seventeenth avenue a barn stands close to the sidewalk and around the west corper of this was the retreat in which the highuntil it is estimated that fully one-fourth of waymen waited. Clark passed the barn with-the human race die before attaining their 5th in reach of their hands and one of the men seized him roughly by the coat while the other thrust a revolver in his face. He was enjoined to keep still and to hold up his hands, which instruction he considered he was not in a position to disobey. One of the men went through his pockets and secured all the money he had, amounting to $3.45.

When they decided they could use him no further the footpads told Mr. Clark to turn about and proceed back down town. This he was willing to do, as the police station lay only two blocks away in that direction. He says he immediately reported the matter to the police and gave a description of his assaliants. For some reason, however, the po-lice officials shut the public out of their confidence and no account of the matter was given out. The chief of police said last night in answer to inquiry that he knew nothing whatever of such a robbery having occurred. SAME OLD PAIR.

The description obtained by Mr. Clark was only a very general one, but was sufficlent to identify the men with those who have been making the city their field durhave been making the city their field dur-ing past months. They were fairly well dressed, one wearing a cap and the other a derby hat. One was short of stature and the other tall. Clark describes the gun which was rudely thrust in his face as a long and shining weapon of heavy caliber. Two men answering this description have een seen around the same location several times lately acting in a suspicious manner. Mrs. Lewis, also of 1817 Jackson street, says she observed the same two men in a recess opposite her house apparently waiting for some one. She was nervous regarding it from the fact that her husband and son would both be obliged to pass their hiding place on their way home an hour later and she accordingly kept watch for half an hour, when the prowlers took themselves off. She says that rough looking men are in the habit of sleeping in the barn back of her house and that a week ago two of them effected an entrance into the house of her neighbor under the plea of examining the gas fittings. They were watched so closely that nothing was carried away, but a large nail fastening was later found wrenched away from a cellar window.

A young man from the western part of the state was held up and robbed of $10 in almost the same spot about a month ago.

SOUTH OMAHA NEWS.

On Friday of this week the work of making each ward was elected last fall, instead of having one assessor for the whole city, as was the former custom. The assessors are: First ward, Lou Etter; Second ward, John Franck: Third ward, Thomas Condon; Fourth ward, John Wawrzynkrewicz. Each assessor will appoint one or more deputies to assist in the work. Assessor Etter of the First ward has appointed Sam B. Christie to make the real estate assessment in the ward, but the other assessors have not as yet announced

In 1896 the assessors returned a valuation of $1,684,000 and in 1897 this was increased to $1,698,000 On account of the many improvements made since last April it is thought that the assessment this year will reach the $2,000,000 mark. All of the packers, the stock yards company and other cor-porations have made big improvements and additions within the last twelve months.
While the Armour plant will not be com-pleted in time to make an assessment accord-for this year could be reduced at least 10 mills and presibly more. On the valuation mentioned a 30 mill levy would bring in $50,-000, while a levy of 34 mills, or 10½ mills less than last year, would bring in about $72,000, or a little more than was realized last year. On account of the rapid growth of the city it may be thought advisable to make a levy of 35 or 36 mills in order to allow more money for fire and police protecion and the constantly increasing expenses

It will be the duty of the council to meet in June for the purpose of fixing the amount of the levy.

Figuring Out the Vote. The large increase in the population since the election last fall is causing considerable speculation among political managers and candidates. According to the registration books of two years ago the population at that time was divided between the following nationalities: Americans, 1,801; Irleh, 318; German, 354; Bohemian, 297; Sweden, 126; Denmark, 106; Austria, 54; Poland, 29; England, 53; Canada, 62; Scotland, 28; Norway, 28; Russia, 11; Switzerland, 15; other countries, 31. This makes a total of 3,313 voters who registered two years ago. The vote at the spring election in 1896 was only 2,767, failing several hundred short of the registration At the April election one year ago 2.373 voics were east and the vote at the election last fall was 2,480. It is estimated by these who have looked over the situation that the vote next Tuesday will be close to

FIREMAN SHOOTS ENGINEER

William Valentine Plants a Bullet in Glenn Deyc's Chin.

RESULT OF A ROW AT THE SMELTER Men Had Quarreled About Their Work and the Alterention Ends in an Attempt at Murder.

William Valentine shot Glenn Deyo shortly after 2 o'clock p. m. yesterday in the engine room of the Omaha-Grant smelter, where they have both been employed. One bullet wees discharged by Valentine from a 32caliber revolver, which took effect in Deyo's chin, passing through that and the man's lower lip.

The shooting was the culmination of frequent altercations which the men have had for more than a year over their jobs. Valentine has been a fireman at the smelter for seven years and Deyo has held the position of assistant engineer for five years.

Recently Valentine got a notion into his head that Deyo was trying to get him discharged, and when the trouble arose yesterday he accused Deyo of "knocking" him. The later denied the Twenty-fourth street is nearly impassable of "knocking" him. The later denied the in places owing to the many deep holes in charge and blows were struck. Then Valentine drew his revolver and shot. Before he could fire another bullet C. S. Smith and plant, interfered, and overpowering Valentine took the weapon away from him. The police were potified and detectives took the would-be murderer into custody.

Rev. Mr. Wheeler is confined to his home with a severe attack of grip, brought on Valentine resides at 2028 Grand avenue, and Devo lives with his family at 3118 Avenue B, Council Bluffs. Valentine is locked up in

Claims Against The Guarantors Finance Co.,

Nebraska Clothing Co

If you don't want a shirtwaist for your youngster today you may want it tomorrow or next week or next month. What we want to impress on you is to look for it here. We have the largest line, the choicest line, the most money saving line, that ever came to Omaha, but of course you'd expect us to say that anyhow, even if wasn't so. It is so. You will find out after awhile, if you don't already know it, that we never—no never—put anything in the papers that we can't back up in the store. Speaking of backing things up, we have some more of those nobby little Junior Suits at $1.75, $2.00, $2.25 and $2.50, that went off like wildfire when we first showed them a few weeks since and we told you in the papers at the time that they were better and prettier than some stores sell for double our price, and you found it so although you didn't believe it when we told you so at the time. Now is a good time to pick out one of those suits for Easter because there is a chance that if you wait till the last moment you'll find them all gone. It isn't at all likely that they will be all gone today or tomorrow, but then you can't tell. They're remarkable value, and unexpected things have happened here before now.

PATENT SUSTAINED

INJUNCTION GRANTED JUDGE TOWNSEND, IN THE UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK, HAS SUSTAINAD THE WELSBACH LIGHT COMPANY'S PATENT AND GRANTED AN INJUNCTION.

Every manufacturer, seller or user of incandescent gas lights other than the Weisbach is, under this decision, an infriner of this patent.

All infringers will be proceeded against at once.

We again caution the public against the purchase of any incandescent mantel other than that made and sold by the Welsbach Company or its agents. Every genuine Welsbach lamp has trads-mark—"Welsbach" conspicuously printed upon the package and upon the burner itself. Dealers desiring to handle the genuine article should communicate at once with the address given below.
